DCCECE’s BehaviorHelp services are now available to assist childcare centers virtually by providing support in managing challenging classroom behaviors, as well as the social and emotional well-being of your children, families and staff during this difficult time. If center directors or staff would like virtual support from a technical assistance provider or mental health consultant, please complete an online BehaviorHelp support request form. Phone, video-conference, or e-mail can be provided!

We can also help you think about ways to support your early childhood education leadership and staff in managing stress and developing coping strategies:

- Reducing anxiety through comforting routines.
- Resources to support the families you work with during this stressful time.
- What to do when you have more serious concerns about family safety or meeting basic needs of families during this crisis.
- Dealing with grief and loss.
- Talking to young children about difficult topics, including the pandemic.
- Knowing when to seek mental health services and how to find evidence-based care for children and/or adults.
